

A Frumster Success Story

I am the daughter of a large well-known Lubavitcher family, and therefore I was pretty sure I wouldn't have a hard time remarrying, as my family would send out scouts to the four corners of the earth to find me a good Lubavitcher boy.

However, I became fairly discouraged very quickly; I was picky in my criteria and was not getting the lists of names I had imagined I would.

After a few months on Frumster, I looked to see who had viewed my profile. When I saw my Moshe's profile, my heart actually skipped a beat. A FFB Lubavitcher I didn't know about?? No way!!! With all I had been through in the last few months, I had no patience for games. I typed exactly what I thought!

It turned out he had just that day heard of Frumster, and had been signed on for less than 12 hours!

Moshe and Chana

As soon as he told me the names of his children, it was instant recognition. You see, his sister is my aunt's sister in law. My brother is his nephew's best friend. I am friendly with two of his sisters, and one sister in law in Crown Heights, and yet no one thought of this shidduch.

I don't have any children, and Moshe has three, so his sisters didn't think I would date a guy with teenagers. Other mutual friends didn't see it, as they just felt that Moshe is so much quieter than I am.

If it was not for Frumster, I would not have found Moshe, and he wouldn't have found me.

Today, Moshe will look at me, smile, and say, FFB Lubavitch 37, No way!! To which my standard response is, FFB Lubavitch 37, Boruch Hashem!! ■
